With F.M.L.

It wasn't hot a mid-week in Cameron. It was searing hot, the high July 90s.

And with the energy shortage or at least with efforts to conserve energy in mind, several people I saw were frying eggs and assorted items on the sidewalks in the downtown area.

That does not mean the air conditioning was off inside the stores. No such thing. These sidewalk fry cooks were using long-handle spatulas to turn the things, projecting from doors or windows of the air conditioned buildings into the summer heat in front.

It was a little dusty though, on First Street where the paving is being removed for a new street level, paving, curbing and sidewalk.

So nobody used salt and pepper. This is likely to be as accurate as some of the testimony before Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee.

Alcoa Testing New Process For Wastes

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Aluminum Company of America, which produces more metal in Texas than any other state, has revealed its scientists are testing a system through which waste heat from power plant stacks may be used to purify water and reduce contaminants to a solid fuel.

Speaking at a joint hearing of House and Senate subcommittees on conservation and efficient use of energy, Dr. Eric A. Walker, Alcoa Vice President - science and technology, said Alcoa Laboratories is trying the system on a pilot basis in an unnamed Alcoa plant.

The system evolved, Dr. Walker said, because Alcoa scientists make theoretical studies to determine whether changes in plant processes and operations can save energy and reduce pollution.

"In one of our plants we use a great deal of very pure water in our rolling processes," Dr. Walker explained. "This water becomes contaminated with oil, soaps and metallic particles and must be purified."

Alcoa scientists worked on a theoretical system by which we could use the waste heat from power plant stack gases to produce purified water and reduce the contaminant -- mostly oil -- to a product which could be burned, Walker said.

"These studies led us to construct a pilot system which is now operating," he said. "Thus we have reduced the liquid pollution to zero, produced our own processing water by using the stack gas heat, and we now produce a solid waste that can be burned in the power plant."

Applications Now Open For New SS Program

Several thousand Milam Countians will be affected by a new program offered by the federal government that will start in 1974. The program will establish an income floor for people in financial need who are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled. The Temple social security office is now taking applications for the supplemental security income payments, according to Jack Calvert, social security district manager.

But people already getting State old age assistance, or State aid because they are blind or disabled, don't have to apply. They'll be getting more information later this year about how the program will help them.

"The first monthly payments under the Federal program will be made in January 1974," Calvert said. "Until then, State public assistance offices will continue to make payments in the usual way."

People not getting public assistance now who think they may be eligible for the new Federal payments should call or write social security to find out if they should apply, according to Calvert.

"Federal supplemental security income payments will be made by the Social Security Administration, but the program will be financed by Federal general revenues -- not by social security contributions from workers and employers. It's not the same as social security," Calvert added.

The aim of the new program is to provide supplemental payments in cases of need so that people 65 or over, or blind, or disabled will have a basic cash income of at least $130 a month for one person and $195 a month for a couple.

"This doesn't mean that every eligible person or couple will be getting that much from the Federal Government every month. The amount of the Federal payment any person gets will depend on how much other income he has."

"Eligibility for Federal payments will depend not only on the amount of income people have but on the value of their assets," Calvert said.

"If you're single -- or married but not living with your husband or wife -- you can own things worth up to $1,500 and still get Federal payments," he said. "A couple can own things worth up to $2,250 and get payments. Not everything you own has to be counted toward your total assets, however."

"A home of reasonable value will not be counted as an asset. Personal effects and household goods won't count in most cases. Insurance policies or a car may not affect eligibility either, but it will depend on their value."

Certain income also will be disregarded in deciding on an application for supplemental security income. The first $20 a month of income generally won't affect the Federal payment at all. In addition, people who are working part time should know that the first $65 a month of earnings won't be included in counting their income and only half of the rest of their additional earnings will be counted," Calvert said.

Apart from earnings, other income above the first $20 a month generally will reduce the Federal payment. "This includes social security checks, veterans payments, workmen's compensation, pensions, annuities, and gifts. And if you live in someone else's house, your basic Federal payment will be reduced by one-third before other income that may affect your payment is deducted."

People who need more information to decide whether they might be eligible for the Federal payments should call the Temple social security office at 778-1861, or write us.

Energy Crisis Spurs Worldwide Studies

By Peter Mosely

LONDON

Reuter - Talk of a possible world energy crisis has spurred urgent studies into alternative sources that were once dismissed as science fiction day-dreams.

Drawing hydrogen from the seas on a massive scale, for instance, or harnessing the tides, controlled thermonuclear fusion, triggered by laser beams, "solar power farms" covering huge tracts of desert, deep wells to tap steam from earth's inner "boiler" - all are thought feasible scientifically if not economically.

But increasingly, the most serious attention is being turned to two forms of power whose fortunes have ebbed in recent years: nuclear reactors and coal.

Nuclear energy was hailed as the great power breakthrough in the 1950s. It was commonly tipped to become the prime source within as little as a quarter-century.

Initial fervor waned, however, as the costs soared and prototype projects, notably in Britain - which led the field - ran into serious technical problems.

In the United States today, nuclear energy by fission contributes less than one percent to total energy supplies. Energy authorities, scientists, business leaders and federal officials meeting in New York last year concluded nuclear power stations would account for about 11 per cent of the total by 1985.

Beyond that, its expansion depended on the speed with which the fast-breeder fission reactor, probably the most promising of those now on the drawing boards, can be developed.

A more recent sign of the times was the announcement by the Royal Dutch Shell group, second biggest oil company in the world, to buy a half-stake in nuclear power operations conducted by its fifth-ranking rival, Gulf Oil Corporation.

Shell officials openly admitted that their late entry into this field was prompted by current gloom at the prospects of exhausting earth's oil resources.

UNIQUE PET is "Rufus" the baby skunk shown with David Eanes. The small animal was found along the road to Rosebud, with a sister or brother who was given away. The Eanes family had fun playing with the skunk, even though it was not "deodorized" at the time this shot was taken. That matter was taken care of Tuesday.

vest in it today. Given the backing, it could swiftly usurp oil as the new "black gold."

If nuclear power and coal should fall in the long term to measure up to expectations, the field will be open for some of the more exotic forms of energy. On the face of it, they all look very simple.

The sun, without whose heat the living earth would die, could surely be tapped for further power. America's Skylab space station, despite its early technical problems, has thrived by capturing solar energy - so why cannot solar panels be deployed on earth to garner the sun's boundless power on a much more expansive scale?

The parallel with Skylab is not entirely fanciful. Ideas have already been aired to beam down, to earth, solar radiation trapped by space stations. But it looks very expensive. Honeywell, the giant electronics and automation group, is working with the University of Minnesota to design a ground station that would do the same job. But clouds get in the way, and ground stations must be made that much more efficient to accommodate this.

The cost of "solar power farms" like those dreamed up by husband-and-wife team Aden and Marjorie Meinel, who want to found them first in Arizona and New Mexico, could well run to twice the cost of nuclear power stations. But the sun-farms would be cleaner.

Such power sources, the experts predict, are unlikely to make their major debut before the year 2001. Geothermal power, the heat from earth's interior, is likely to be an early candidate.

Presently about as advanced as the oil industry was 100 years ago, geothermal energy is being tapped by drill at Larderello, west of Siena, Italy and at the geysers north of San Francisco, California.

But these two "steam fields" are freaks of nature. Most of the likely fields have turned out to hold mineral rich, salty hot water requiring extensive processing.

Tejas District Sets Swim Meet

Upwards to 100 Boy Scouts are expected to compete in the annual Tejas District Swim Meet, Monday, July 30, starting at 8 p.m. at Rockdale's municipal pool, according to district activities chairman J. H. Greene.

Twenty-eight Scouting units representing Cameron, Rockdale, Thordale, Buckholts, Calvert, Franklin, Rosebud, Westphalia, Milano, Gause and Bremond will field entries in the 12 event meet.

Greene said the district-wide activity features competition for every youngster. He said events are scheduled for non-swimmers, beginning swimmers and adept swimmers.

"It should be an evening of good, hard competition for the boys and wholesome entertainment for families and friends of the contestants," Greene said. Each boy entered will receive a participation ribbon and the top four finishers in each event will be honored with a ribbon."

Rockdale Troop 789 will be trying to capture its third consecutive title under new Scoutmaster Rudy Grossman. Troop 789, which is sponsored by the First Christian Church, will be hard-pressed for victory by last year's runner up, Troop 790, also of Rockdale.

Executive director Ron Derry, who will assist Greene, said many returning individual high point winners will be "on the blocks" when competition begins Monday night.

Of the 12 events, eight will be races in the side stroke, beginner's free-style, back stroke, breast stroke, medley relay, beginner's under-water swim, adept swimmer's under-water swim and a free-style distance swim.

Three special events are scheduled including a breath holding contest for non-swimmers and beginners and a shallow-water foot race for non-swimmers.

Baseball Meeting Set Thursday

There will be a baseball meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Cameron Community Center for managers, parents and all who are interested in the summer baseball program.

The meeting will include minor league, little league, pony league and girls softball.

Ed Cauley, city recreation director, will present plans for organizing and carrying out the plans for next summer's ball programs.

Only one diving event, from the low board, will be held. Each participant must perform dives from the front, back and one of the individual's choice and will be judged by Bill Cooke of Rockdale.

A youngster will be classified a swimmer if he can swim at least 50 yards, a beginner if he is able to swim between 25 and 50 yards and a non-swimmer if he is unable to swim 25 yards.

According to Greene, the City of Rockdale has donated the use of the pool and he invites everyone to come out and watch the Boy Scout extravaganza. He also urges fans to bring lawn chairs for comfort-sake.

TSTI Regents Approve Budget, Raise Tuition

WACO
The Board of Regents of Texas State Technical Institute approved a $14,917,254 budget today to operate the multi-campus facility for the 1973-74 school year and raised tuition fees.

The new operating budget goes into effect September 1 of this year. The new figure compares to $12,841,446 for the 1972-73 school year. It is an 11.6 per cent increase over the present operating budget.

In other action, the board approved changes in the student fee which calls for raising the tuition cost from $50 to $60 per term with a maximum of $30 per term to be charged for lab fees.

The change in charges became necessary as State Tech moves from a three term schedule on the trimester plan to a four term schedule on the quarter system.

Dr. Roy Dugger, president of Texas State Technical Institute, said "this sets the cost of attending State Tech comparable to that of other state supported institutions in Texas."

A New Element...

A new element is often the solution to a delay in carrying off a project or convincing someone a good thing is really good.

Folk Fete went into the big plus side and heavy crowds by relocation to the Cameron Armory area. One site, considerable activity.

Downtown takes on dimension with the new streets, sidewalks and curbs around the new mall.

A new view of itself came for Cameron with two consecutive visits of a major orchestra, Dallas Symphony, and literally dozens of hundreds of students seeing it.

A new industry reminds us that each is important as it comes in and remains important as it grows and contributes to financial base of the area.

And it continues. A new element makes a difference, perhaps only the slightest, but enough to keep momentum that lost, can mean not only a slowdown, but a hesitation in a community's part of the larger scheme of things.

Another Consolidation...

We note that Caldwell and Deanville school districts combined the other day, not but a few weeks after Maysfield and Cameron went together.

An unofficial vote favored Caldwell over Somerville among Deanville straw voters. So they joined the county seat system.

This may be a sign of the school times. Until a new Texas finance program is developed, consolidation will continue to be the way the ad valorem system will function.

Smaller districts usually are paying lower taxes, but have smaller schools to support. Consolidation is an option for better schools as taxes rise in historical inflationary value and valuation of land.

EPA Pollution Proposals Run Into Opposition

By Bill Boykin

Federal Environmental Protection Agency proposals to cut auto pollution smog in Texas ran into opposition in public hearings last week.

EPA proposes to put the smog control plans into effect August 15 unless convinced it should alter or delay them.

Here's what the controls would mean, with variations from area to area:

*Special traffic lanes for buses and car pools on free-ways.

*Installation of anti-pollution devices on pre-1968 cars.

*Elimination of downtown parking in major cities like Houston and San Antonio.

*Gasoline quotas.

*Reducing gasoline fumes in some areas (like Austin-Waco) by improved storage tanks and tighter gasoline delivery trucks.

A Texas Good Roads Association spokesman assailed the idea of special traffic lanes as potential contributors to all-time record traffic pile-ups.

A Texas Air Control Board representative also challenged constitutionality of EPA recommendations to require owners of seven-year-old (and older) cars to install anti-smog equipment.

The latter requirement, said the Board spokesman, places an undue and discriminatory burden on the poor and raises questions under due process and equal guarantees of the fifth and 14th amendments.

Air Control Board spokesman have contended emission control devices would cost owners of old cars $300 million and would affect one per cent of the total pollution problem.

PRICE INCREASES

The Texas Department of Agriculture reports dramatic increases in prices of eggs, pork and other commodities throughout the state.

TDA estimated the egg price increase at 10 cents per dozen this week on the retail level, and said grade A large eggs could sell for 85 cents a dozen.

Potatoes are expected to increase from $1 to $2 hundredweight.

Pork prices are up 10 cents a pound, and lamb prices are also soaring. The Agriculture Department said some smaller packers are also soaring. The Agriculture Department said some smaller packers are contemplating discontinuing cattle slaughter. Distributors were said to be seeking additional supplies of vegetables since they are permitted to raise prices.

A major problem is a shortage of trucks to move grain.

REIMBURSEMENT

Cities which constructed sewage treatment plants between July 1, 1966 and July 1, 1972, without benefit of full federal construction grants can get reimbursements.

Texas Water Quality Board Executive Director Hugh C. Yantis Jr. said applications for the reimbursements should be made to the Environmental Protection by October 17. Yantis also suggested cities which constructed plants as far back as July 1, 1956, without full federal grants should make applications for reimbursement in case regulations are changed to qualify them.

BRISCOE WEALTH

Major Texas daily newspapers came up with estimates that Gov. Dolph Briscoe owns more than 300,000 acres of land in South Texas and has assets of over $40 million.

The Governor paid $113,309 in taxes on his land in 1972.

"What we assess him, he pays," said Dimmit County Tax Assessor-Collector Mrs. Jeanne John.

Through leases, in addition to his holdings, Briscoe is said to control a million acres of land.

COURTS SPEAK

Third Court of Civil Appeals agreed with lower court that St. Mary's University of San Antonio owns the Laredo Archives and other documents in the Setron S. Wilcox collection.

The same court dismissed South Texans' suit for hunting rights in Uvalde, Dimmit and Zavala counties river beds.

Affirming an intermediate court, the State Supreme Court backed a new trial for a candy flavoring mix company's suit to collect insurance on ice cream unfit for consumption.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals affirmed a district court verdict that a miscarriage by an Austin woman was not caused by an auto accident.

OIL PRODUCTION

For the 17th straight month, the Railroad Commission has directed 100 per cent oil production during August.

Crude oil buyers' request for more than 3.78 million barrels daily was slightly less than the record for July, however.

Exceptions to the wide-open order were allowed for East Texas field (86 per cent) Kelly-Snyder of West Texas (84 per cent) and Tom O'Connor Field (70 per cent).

Commission Chairman Jim C. Langdon said state crude reserves dropped 13.1 million barrels since July, 1972.

AG OPINIONS

Atty. Gen. John Hill conditionally approved the state's $5 million tuition-equalization grant program for private college students but warned that rules must be framed to meet U. S. Supreme Court tests of aid to parochial schools.

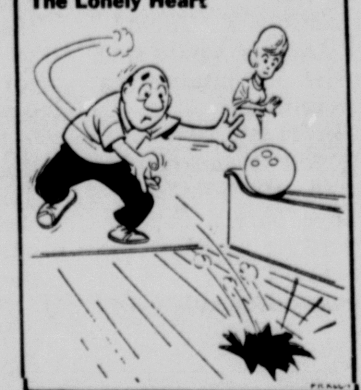

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

*A college professor cannot be employed simultaneously as an assistant state district attorney.

*Residence of a minor for purpose of school attendance is normally that of his parents.

*Texas Water Quality Board has authority to require feedlot owners to submit evidence that wastes from their operation will not cause pollution of ground or surface waters.

The Lonely Heart

Dear editor:

Some people can't understand why the U.S. should have spent ten years and 100 billion dollars fighting the spread of Communism in Viet Nam and then turn around and sell the Communists in Russia all that wheat, but that's because they can't understand international strategy.

Russia right now, according to an article I read last night, is on the verge of the automobile age. The country now has 2 million private car owners, expects to double that by year after next, and is opening up new automobile plants.

All right. You can't build more cars unless you're well-fed, can you? The wheat deal was sound, although I know a banker or two around here who wouldn't have recommended selling it on credit.

But the point is, if we're going to maintain a balance of power, Russia has got to be over whelmed with as many cars as we are.

How can you have a polluted city with only a fraction of the population driving cars to work? How can you even have a gasoline shortage? How can we maintain our balance or power if two-thirds of the Russians aren't tangled up in traffic jams?

No sir. Anything we can do to keep the Russians building more cars we ought to do. Ship them food, send them some technicians, teach them about assembly lines, and above all let them in on $100 down and 36 months to pay.

Then after they get their cars flowing off the assembly line by the thousands, get some road building equipment to the. There's no place on earth that won't attract a steady stream of traffic if you'll build a road to it. It's a proven fact: the more cars you build, the more highways you need, and the more highways you build, the more cars that'll show up to over-crowd them, from here to the setting sun.

No person in this country should rest easy until Russia is criss-crossed with multi-lane highways backed up with bumper-to-bumper traffic, with radiators boiling over. Balance of power demands it.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

COSTS UP

The price of almost everything the consumer buys has gone up faster than the cost of food. While food costs have increased 47 % since 1952, the average worker has enjoyed pay raises of more than 140 %. During this same period, the cost of medical care has gone up 123 % and housing now costs 64 % more.

"Low Down"

FROM THE
Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

DEFAULT ON STUDENT LOANS $31 MILLION

Rep. S. F. Devine (Ohio)

"... For the last year, or so, I have been watching the collection operation of the Student Loan program by the Office of Education. In the fiscal year of 1971 the Federal taxpayers spent 2.4 million to collect student loans. Congress gave them an additional million dollars in 1972 to collect some $30 million in default loans."

"The number of students who failed to pay their loans is increasing so fast that some pessimists feel the entire program is ready to collapse."

"In a report dated February 23, 1973, from the Comptroller General's Office, there are presently $31,354,860 in default payments with 38,000 individuals involved. The Office of Education in fiscal year 1972 collected $300,000. In their Boston regional office, for example, with 179 defaulted loans they collected on 9 for a total of $257. At this rate how long will it take them to collect $31 million?"

"Today I am introducing legislation that would permit the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to contract with professional commercial claims collection services to collect loans as it is obvious the Office of Education does not have the expertise to accomplish the job that needs to be done, and so that other students may participate in the Guaranteed Loan program."

"Other young people are clamoring for assistance that they may continue their education and $31 million would go a long way toward assuring them of sufficient funds to increase their knowledge and in turn, the welfare of the Nation."

Rep. Bella S. Abzug (N.Y.) "... Representatives of the National Student Lobby (NSL) recently appeared before the Labor-HEW-Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee to present the lobby's position on student aid for the fiscal year 1974."

"The NSL has received the support of numerous colleges across the Nation for its stand in favor of increased funding for student financial aid..."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

A college course in collecting delinquent loans might be in order.

Letters

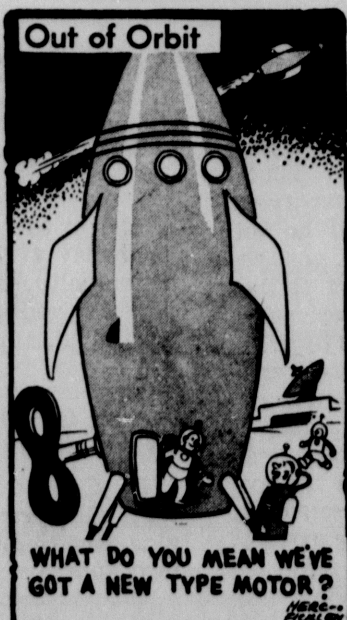

Dear Mr. Luecke:

I recently attended the Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar in Waco for senior students in high school. It stressed the importance of getting involved as citizens of this country if we wish this country to remain free and a constitutional republic.

I was made aware of the forces that are eroding our free enterprise system and that are leading free men farther to slavery and government domination. It surprised me to learn how the American people are supporting Communism and without America and her indirect support the Communist Countries could not prosper.

I wish to thank the Farm Bureau for giving me the chance to go to the Seminar and to be informed so that I will be able to pass this information along to other interested, freedom loving people.

Sincerely yours,
Tom Jensen

Armyworm Is Back In July

By Bill McCutchen

There is no normal year anymore it seems. I certainly don't know what a normal year would be in Central Texas. One of the most abnormal happenings is Armyworms in home yards and pastures.

Armyworms usually show up in the fall of the year on lush bermuda and small grain pastures. Rains throughout the summer have kept pastures in a lush growing condition that is uncommon for mid-summer and local armyworm infestations have been the result. They are not expected to be much of a problem however as hot weather will probably slow down pastures and keep them in check.

COTTON INSECT
A heavy bollworm egg lay as expected developed July 15 - 17th in both upland and bottomland cotton fields in the county.

Inspections later on in the week by myself, Dr. Charles Cole, Entomologist; and producers showed that beneficial insects in most fields were quite capable of handling the situation.

If producers can ride out egg lay won't be until August 11th and the crop should be far enough along to avoid much of a problem.

Watching cotton fields and knowing beneficial and damaging insects and the balance between the two is known as "cotton pest management."

Beneficial insects, when allowed to build up in cotton fields are much more effective in controlling bollworms and budworms than insecticides and the economics of this pest management program speaks for itself.

SCREW WORM SITUATION
Last year at this time the screw worm situation was critical in Milam County with cases reported daily. This year there have been no confirmed cases to date in the County.

I would urge livestock producers to check cattle and other livestock and submit any suspected cases to the Mission laboratory. Mailing vials are available from all local veterinarians and the County Extension Office.

Market Report

There were 745 cattle and calves consigned to the Cameron Livestock Auction Thursday, compared with 755 last week and 668 last year.

Slaughter cows were 1.00 to 1.50 higher, full advance on utility. Slaughter bulls mostly 2.00 higher. Feeder steers and steer calves fully 1.00 higher with full advance on good and choice. Feeder heifers and heifer calves 2.00 higher. Stock cows and pairs sharply upward.

Slaughter cows utility 33.50 to 37.80, cutter 29.50 to 34.50. Slaughter bulls yield grade 1-2, 39.25 to 44.50. Feeder steers choice 78 to 85. Feeder heifers choice 58.50 to 63.50. Stock cows, good and choice 36 to 41. 50. Cow and calf pairs choice 450 to 525.

Hog receipts totaled 526 with barrows and gilts mostly 8.00 higher. Sows fully steady. US 1-2 barrows and gilts brought 50 to 50.50. Sows, U.S. 1-2 brought 35 to 40.

USDA BUDGET
In 1972, the U. S. Department of Agriculture spent $3.47 billion on programs for food distribution, food stamps, child nutrition and school milk. This was nearly one-third of the entire USDA budget.

Phase IV Counts Out Farmers, Says Naman

"Farmers have been counted out again in the announcement of President Nixon's Phase IV economic program," stated Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman of Waco at the charter meeting of the Scurry County Farmers Union in Snyder Monday night.

Naman explained that while the announcement of the program leaves the impression that special consideration is being given farmers, the new price control program is disappointing in that it discriminates against producers of certain commodities.

"While the cattle feeding segment of the farming industry is suffering as a result of the cost-price squeeze, Phase IV specifically avoids any relief to cattle producers. It also fails to modify the embargo that has been placed on soybeans, cottonseed and related products, which deals harshly with producers of these commodities," Naman said.

The statewide farm leader charged that Treasury Secretary Schultz's statements concerning profits in agriculture are distorted and misleading in view of the fact that farmers are still only receiving 88% of a fair price for what they produce. "Family farmers resent Secretary Schultz's off-hand and ill-founded remarks concerning farmers crying all the way to the bank on nationwide television. Rash comments such as this indicate that Secretary Schultz is completely lacking in understanding the serious economic problems now facing family farmers," Naman said.

The Farmers Union leader states that Phase IV is a further indication that the Nixon Administration fails to grasp the need to provide the economic incentive to farmers and ranchers to produce in abundance.

Price Index Rises Weekly

Meat prices hover at ceiling prices, and "real specials" are hard to find, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reported this week.

The consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, listed beef department best values as chuck cuts, round steaks and ground beef.

"A substitute hamburger is available in some stores," she said.

"This is ground beef with a soy protein added. Its price is substantially lower than regular ground beef; however, this may increase some as the price of soy beans continues to rise. Its protein is about the same as regular ground beef -- and fat is lower."

In port, Mrs. Clyatt recommended Boston butt roasts, quarter-loin sliced and rib-end roasts.

"Fryer chicken and egg prices remain about the same as a week ago with large size eggs in best supply, while turkeys have increased a bit.

"Fryer chickens are still good buys in most markets even though prices have advanced considerably in the past few months.

Crop Report Looks Good... Milk Production Increases and Decreases... Pasture and Range Conditions

All major crops in Texas show increases in acreage, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. Wheat production as well as oat production are also estimated now at two to three times above 1972 production levels.

Upland cotton acres for Texas this year are estimated at 5,700,000 compared with 5,570,000 in 1972. Acres planted to American-Pima cotton are 35,000, unchanged from last year. All of the increase in the upland cotton is in the High and Low Plains and Edwards Plateau.

Grain sorghum acreage this year in Texas is estimated at 8,100,000 acres, up 19 per cent from the 6,800,000 acres planted in 1972. Harvest of the crop has already started in South Texas. An excellent crop is indicated for Central Texas. Hot, dry weather is needed to mature the crop.

Corn planted for all purposes in Texas this year is estimated at 700,000 acres compared with 580,000 acres planted in 1972. Because of the weather, corn is in various stages of growth in every area of the state. Farmers in all parts of the state were able to get some early stands; most stands were about on schedule but cold, wet weather increased late plantings.

Peanut acreage for Texas in 1973 is up two per cent from 1972. Acreage now is estimated at 320,000 acres. Weather again delayed the progress, but moisture conditions now are favorable for the development of a good peanut crop.

Wheat production is now estimated at 95,200,000 bushels in Texas; this is more than double the 44,000,000 bushels produced in 1972.

Yield is expected to average 28 bushels per acre, a record, compared with 22 bushels last year. Harvested acres set at 3,400,000 compared with only 2,000,000 in 1972. Wheat harvest for the state is now virtually complete.

Oat production this year is estimated at 26,650,000 bushels, compared with only 9,720,000 bushels in 1972. Yield is expected to average a record 41 bushels per acre compared with 27 bushels in 1972. Acres for harvest are set at 650,000 compared with 360,000 in 1972. Harvest is completed.

Soybeans, a crop which is becoming more important in Texas, are estimated to total 450,000 acres this year, compared with 225,000 in 1972, and only 114,000 in 1971. Seeding for the state is complete; acreage is mostly in the High Plains and the southern half of the state.

Rice acreage in Texas this year is estimated at 553,000 acres compared with 469,000 acres in 1972. Harvest of the earliest stands is at hand.

Barley production is estimated at 3,510,000 bushels, compared with 1,980,000 bushels in 1972. Yield is expected to average 39 bushels per acre compared to 33 bushels in 1972. Harvested acres are set at 90,000 compared to 60,000 last year.

Rye production is estimated at 900,000 compared to 630,000 bushels in 1972. Average is 18 bushels per acre; harvested acres are set at 50,000 compared to 35,000 in 1972.

Only flaxseed, Irish potatoes and peaches are expected to be under 1972 production levels. Flaxseed planted acreage is estimated at 9,000 acres compared with 22,000 in 1972. Irish potato production is estimated at 2,991,000 hundredweight compared with 3,182,000 hundredweight in 1972. Peach production is estimated at 417,000 bushels compared with 604,000 bushels in 1972.

MILK production in Texas in June was up five per cent from a month ago, nationwide milk production was down 2.5 per cent from last year.

Santa Fe Reports On Revenues

Santa Fe Industries, Inc. reported record revenues and net income for both the first six months and the second quarter of 1973 in an announcement made today by John S. Reed, chairman and chief executive officer.

Sales and revenues of this transportation-natural resources-real estate company rose 22% over the first six months of last year to a new high of $570.4 million, while net income rose 20% to $43.9 million. The resulting record earnings per share of $1.72 compared with last year's $1.47.

The 1973 amounts include Robert E. McKee, Inc., a general construction contractor acquired in January 1973, which contributed $9-64,000 to net income on revenues of approximately $38 million.

Second quarter 1973 earnings were a record $23.6 million or $2.22 per share, topping both last year's $7.3 figure and the $8.80 reported for the first quarter of this year.

Marines Provide Evidence Of Changing China Scene

By James Pringle
PEKING, CHINA
Reuter-The six American marines on duty at the newly-opened United States Liaison office here provide the most tangible evidence of the startling transformation of Sino-American relations that has taken place in the past two years.

Whether riding their bicycles along with Peking's bicycle-borne "masses" or taking part in a rowing "regatta" with diplomats from other embassies, the marines are already beginning to make an impact on the social scene here.

This is nothing new, for there have been American marines in China before, and 4,000 "leathernecks" transformed the dull port of Tientsin in 1928 into the liveliest city of the orient, at least for a year.

In fact, according to Maj. Don Evans, who commands marine security guards at 23 American diplomatic posts in the far east, the whole idea of marines as embassy sentinels started in China in the first place with the Fourth Marine Regiment--the "China Marines."

"In a sense," said Evans, who was visiting Peking from his Hong-Kong base recently at the formal opening of the liaison office in its new premises, "in returning to Peking we have come home."

And, "coming home," the marines in their smart khaki shirts and blue trousers under Staff Sgt. Royal "Ossie"

Osborne of Hazard, Kentucky, symbolize the new Sino American relationship following the visit to China of President Nixon in February last year.

For, while the marines armed with .38 caliber pistols, mount 24-hour guard duty within the liaison office building, troops of the Chinese Peoples Liberation Army are on sentry duty outside the gates and the two sides were foes as recently as the Korean war in the early fifties.

"I still can't believe this is really happening," said one foreign diplomat after visiting the U. S. liaison office beside Peking's Alter of the Sun Park. "American marines in Peking--its all too much to take in."

But U. S. marines were in China and fought in defense of the besieged legation quarter during the Boxer Rebellion in 1900. The Boxers were in anti-foreign peasant movement supported by the Dowager Empress Tzu Hsi during the twilight of the Manchu dynasty.

After the rising was suppressed, a 1901 protocol permitted the imperial powers to station foreign troops in North China to guard legations and treaty ports.

In 1928, during the turbulent warlord era, 4,000 marines of the Fourth Marine Regiment landed at Tientsin, transforming this port serving Peking. Theaters, cabarets, restaurants, dance halls, bowling alleys, bars, billiard parlors and gambling dens sprang up and thrived, according to contemporary reports.

For companionship, beautiful and amoral--White Russian girls flooded into the city from their families' places of exile in North China.

A year later the marines were gone--leaving quite a few unpaid bar bills signed in the names of Herbert Hoover, George Washington and Smedley Butler, the marine commandant. The bars and dance halls closed and Tientsin sank back into drabness.

Stuffed Tex. Flounder Is Always Delicious

Texas flounder is an all-time favorite.

Its snow-white flesh and delicate flavor make it one of the most popular of fish.

Though delicious when baked or broiled whole, flounder can be fancied up a bit with crab meat stuffing. If you have never stuffed a fish before, don't be scared just yet; the following recipe tells how easy it is.

After you try "Flounder Stuffed With Crab," you'll undoubtedly want more seafood recipes, so send a postcard with your name and address--no money--to "Seafood," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

Flounder Stuffed With Crab

6 pan-dressed flounder (3/4 lb. each)
Crab Stuffing
1/3 cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons salt
3/4 cup melted butter or margarine
Paprika

Clean, wash and dry fish. To make a pocket for the stuffing, lay the fish flat on a cutting board, light side down. With a sharp knife cut down the center of fish along the backbone from the tail to about one inch from the head. Turn the knife flat and cut the flesh along both sides of the backbone to the tail allowing the knife to run over the rib bones. Place fish in a single layer on a well-greased baking pan. Stuff fish loosely. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Brush fish with sauce. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes six servings.

Crab Stuffing

1 pound fresh Gulf crab meat
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/3 cup chopped celery
1/3 cup chopped green pepper
1/3 cup melted fat or oil
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 cup soft bread cubes
3 eggs beaten
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Drain crab meat and remove any remaining shell or cartilage. Cook onion, celery, green pepper and garlic in fat until tender. Combine bread cubes, eggs, parsley, salt, pepper, cooked vegetables and crab meat; mix thoroughly.

New Zealand Apples Make Good US Pies

COLLEGE STATION

Granny Smith apples from New Zealand will make pie while the sun shines in the United States this summer.

"New Zealand seasons are the reverse of ours, and these apples are crisp and juicy--excellent cooked or eaten fresh," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt said.

"They'll be in the markets soon," the consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, predicted. She added that almost-exhausted apple supplies from controlled-atmosphere storage in the U.S. continue costing more as summer approaches.

Texas' grapefruit crop shows an increase of 20 percent over the 1971-72 season, resulting in more fruit available at attractive prices.

"And oranges, bananas, pineapples, avocados and strawberries are worthy of consideration, pricewise."

"Most economical vegetable choices include cabbage, carrots, celery, potatoes, corn, mustard, collards, turnip greens, radishes and green onions."

Specials at egg counters, poultry and beef sections fit into the "casual eating" pattern of the picnic season now that it's official.

"Fryer chickens remain about the same with a few retailers offering whole birds and parts at lower prices."

"Best beef values appear on round steaks and roasts, ground beef, chuck roasts, calf and beef liver."

Best pork values generally include shoulder roasts and steaks, end-cut loin roasts and chops, smoked hams, picnics and pork liver, Mrs. Clyatt concluded.

Free Agriculture Vital, Says Woodson

Texas Farm Bureau President J. T. Woodson said farmers and ranchers are grateful that the administration recognized the "Fallacy" of price controls on raw farm products in the new Phase 4 economic controls.

"A free agriculture can and will produce adequate supplies of food for this nation with enough left over for export to help strengthen our economic standing around the world," Woodson said.

The farm leader said it is "regrettable" that beef will remain under the freeze until Sept. 12. This will cause many producers to hold their cattle off the market until that time, he said.

"We believe that wage and price controls are bad for any and all segments of the economy," the head of the 145,000-member farm organization said. "We look forward to the day when this country can return to an unrestricted economy."

Stuffed Tex. Flounder Is Always Delicious

Texas flounder is an all-time favorite.

Its snow-white flesh and delicate flavor make it one of the most popular of fish.

Though delicious when baked or broiled whole, flounder can be fancied up a bit with crab meat stuffing. If you have never stuffed a fish before, don't be scared just yet; the following recipe tells how easy it is.

After you try "Flounder Stuffed With Crab," you'll undoubtedly want more seafood recipes, so send a postcard with your name and address--no money--to "Seafood," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

Flounder Stuffed With Crab

6 pan-dressed flounder (3/4 lb. each)
Crab Stuffing
1/3 cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons salt
3/4 cup melted butter or margarine
Paprika

Clean, wash and dry fish. To make a pocket for the stuffing, lay the fish flat on a cutting board, light side down. With a sharp knife cut down the center of fish along the backbone from the tail to about one inch from the head. Turn the knife flat and cut the flesh along both sides of the backbone to the tail allowing the knife to run over the rib bones. Place fish in a single layer on a well-greased baking pan. Stuff fish loosely. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Brush fish with sauce. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes six servings.

Crab Stuffing

1 pound fresh Gulf crab meat
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/3 cup chopped celery
1/3 cup chopped green pepper

1/3 cup melted fat or oil
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 cup soft bread cubes
3 eggs beaten
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Drain crab meat and remove any remaining shell or carilage. Cook onion, celery, green pepper and garlic in fat until tender. Combine bread cubes, eggs, parsley, salt, pepper, cooked vegetables and crab meat; mix thoroughly.

New Zealand Apples Make Good US Pies

COLLEGE STATION

Granny Smith apples from New Zealand will make pie while the sun shines in the United States this summer.

"New Zealand seasons are the reverse of ours, and these apples are crisp and juicy--excellent cooked or eaten fresh," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt said.

"They'll be in the markets soon," the consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, predicted. She added that almost-exhausted apple supplies from controlled-atmosphere storage in the U.S. continue costing more as summer approaches.

Texas' grapefruit crop shows an increase of 20 percent over the 1971-72 season, resulting in more fruit available at attractive prices.

"And oranges, bananas, pineapples, avocados and strawberries are worthy of consideration, likewise."

"Most economical vegetable choices include cabbage, carrots, celery, potatoes, corn, mustard, collards, turnip greens, radishes and green onions."

Specials at egg counters, poultry and beef sections fit into the "casual eating" pattern of the picnic season now that it's official.

"Fryer chickens remain about the same with a few retailers offering whole birds and parts at lower prices."

"Best beef values appear on round steaks and roasts, ground beef, chuck roasts, calf and beef liver."

Best pork values generally include shoulder roasts and steaks, end-cut loin roasts and chops, smoked hams, picnics and pork liver, Mrs. Clyatt concluded.

The Sr. High MYF will sponsor an old-fashioned ice cream supper on Monday July 30 from 7-9 p.m. in the Methodist Fellowship Hall. Ice cream will cost 50¢ and cake will be 15¢. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Use leftover fabrics for contrasting yokes, sleeves, pockets or front dress panels in new garment. However, combine fabrics of similar weight and washing instructions, recommends Vivian Warminski, clothing specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, as A&M University.

Free Agriculture Vital, Says Woodson

Texas Farm Bureau President J. T. Woodson said farmers and ranchers are grateful that the administration recognized the "fallacy" of price controls on raw farm products in the new Phase 4 economic controls.

"A free agriculture can and will produce adequate supplies of food for this nation with enough left over for export to help strengthen our economic standing around the world," Woodson said.

The farm leader said it is "regrettable" that beef will remain under the freeze until Sept. 12. This will cause many producers to hold their cattle off the market until that time, he said.

"We believe that wage and price controls are bad for any and all segments of the economy," the head of the 145,000-member farm organization said. "We look forward to the day when this country can return to an unrestricted economy."

Speir said general qualifications for DPS patrolmen are: Applicants must be 20 through 35 years of age (inclusive); good moral character; excellent physical condition; height not less than 68 inches nor more than 76 inches; weight not less than two pounds nor more than 3 1/2 pounds per inch of height; visual acuity no worse than 20/40 correctable to 20/20; and a citizen of the United States. During the training period, cadets participate in some 850 hours of law enforcement classes on a wide variety of subjects such as criminal and traffic law, human and community relations, and investigative techniques. The schooling includes rigorous physical training, marksmanship, and skills related to pursuit driving.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

"Wildlife is a product of edges." This statement has long been an axiom in game management circles. Although hunters may not have thought of it in these terms, this principle is one that most of them realize instinctively.

What does it mean? Dr. J. P. Linduska of Remington Arms explains it this way. When you go hunting for cottontails (and that's legal in Texas anytime) you don't put your beagle down in the center of a cornfield, or in the middle of a dense wood. You work the hedgerows, brushpiles, and woodland borders . . . the edges.

It's the same with quail and pheasants. For every one of these birds you find out in the center of the field, you'll stir up a dozen on the borders, on the banks of ditches and just inside the thickets. Again it's the edges.

Of course the real give-away as to where game hangs out is to watch a bird dog with a couple of seasons of savvy behind him. He won't putter around in the big uniform places. He will skirt the edges of the field, the edges of the plum thickets, the edges of the orchard, and all the other edges where different types of vegetation meet.

Dr. Kinduska says "It's no mystery why game inhabit the edges. That's where they find, in close proximity, all the things necessary for a good life."

He points out that the center of a picked cornfield offers food aplenty and occasionally the birds will wander to the center. Also the center offers protection, so now and then the birds will stray in. But by far the greatest advantage to the hunter is to be found at the edges . . . since that's where the game spends most of its time.

Succinctly put "it's a matter of safety and logistics".

Whether it's game or some other species of animal life it's not enough simply to have lots of food and cover. Unless they are properly distributed . . . one in relation to the other . . . the amount of wildlife an area will support will be limited well below its real potential.

That's why, other things being equal, 10 one-acre ponds will produce more ducks than one big 10-acre pond.

It's a large part of the reason, too, why the small patch farms of yore were more productive of game than the big, consolidated, Texas ranches of today.

Modern day game management strives to improve habitat partly by increasing and bettering "edge" conditions.

Naturally, such a program doesn't allow for too many generalities. In a large timber stand it might well mean creating openings to insert food producing units in a uniform habitat of trees. In a large area of open fields it might call for hedges, or fence-row plantings of shrubs and trees to add cover to a barren landscape.

Whatever the formula, it will vary with the nature of the countryside and the type of game you want to encourage. But you can be sure that giving wildlife an edge on numbers will require, first of all, giving them an edge on which to live.

Veteran Drag Racer Hopes To Add Win Honors

COLLEGE STATION

Veteran drag racer, Monk King, hopes to add the Top E. T. Eliminator honors to his win record at the 1/8 mile drag racing classic set for Sunday, July 29 at Texas World Speedway.

The Denton, Texas Pontiac dealer has been one of the more prominent figures on the national drag racing scene since 1957.

During his successful career, Monk has established one of the most impressive win records in the sport of drag racing, including the Super Stock class win at the 1961 NHRA Nationals at Indianapolis.

Several seasons ago, he turned the driving duties over to the capable Ken Risk, who has continued to carry the Monk King banner for a consistent string of wins, with King turning the wrenches.

Last year the team stormed through one of the strongest fields of cars ever assembled at Green Valley to take the Top Stock Eliminator title.

King's entry for the first National Hot Rod Association sanctioned drag meet at the super fast Texas World Speedway is a 1971 455 cubic inch Pontiac LeMans that has consistently been one of the cars to beat at the North Texas drag strips all season. The sleek looking, black and gold Pontiac runs in the low 11.50's bracket on the 1/4 mile tracks.

The $2,000 Modified Production, Super Stock and E. T. Bracket event gets underway with time trials beginning at 11 a.m. and eliminations starting at 3 p.m. on Sunday, July 29.

Commission Approves Second Split Dove Hunt

AUSTIN

A second experimental split mourning dove season was set in a July 12 meeting of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Commission.

The commissioners acted on the recommendations of the department staff for a fall North Zone season of Sept. 1 - Oct. 14, 1973; and a fall South Zone season of Sept. 22 - Nov. 4, 1973.

The winter hunting season in both zones is slated to run Jan. 5-20, 1974 with the exception of the Trans-Pecos Regulatory District where the winter season will be Jan. 5 - 15, 1974.

In those counties of the South Zone which have white-winged dove hunting, the mourning dove season will be concurrent with the Sept. 1 - 2, Sept. 8 - 9 white-wing season with additional mourning dove hunting Sept. 22 - Oct. 31, 1973.

Education Comm. At Work

Rep. Dan Kubiak reports that his Education Committee is continuing its work "around the clock" trying to meet the September 15 deadline for submitting a proposal to the Speaker, the Governor, and the Lt. Governor.

He said he visited in the Dallas - Fort Worth area along with several districts in Falls, Milam and Williamson Counties.

"Everywhere the story is the same," Kubiak said in his newsletter. "Local districts must have relief from increasing ad valorem taxes and must have help in financing public schools from the state."

"Otherwise, increases from 10 to 35 percent are predicted by September 1974. Our subcommittees are finding land on tax rolls ranging from $1.50 an acre to $500 per acre. Somewhere equality is missing and so-nothing must be done.

"Reports show the small businessman, the homeowner, and the small farmer are carrying the brute of the load in financing education in Texas. They simply cannot carry too much more of the already burdensome load."

In other business, Kubiak reported that the Texas Highway Department has cancelled the monthly contract letting scheduled for July 24-25. State Engineer said failure of the Congress to approve a federal-aid highway bill left the state with no alternative.

The word veto means "I forbid."

Sports - Murray-Go-Round

COLORADO-TEXAS

Vail, Denver, Colorado Springs, Colo. - In the supposed cool Rocky Mountain climes you are struck with how much Texas and Colorado really have in common. Like 95 degrees and sweat. When the temperature hit five degrees short of the century mark at Winter Playland Vail, last week, 14,000 feet above the tide at Galveston, not only were the skiers back in Houston, Baytown, Victoria, and Beaumont.

So was the air-conditioning.

But, back to our original theme. While New Mexico gets in the way, geographically, it is really amazing how much of a partnership Texas and Colorado have going in sports. Texas Schoolboy football stars flock to Colorado U. Colorado Schoolboy stars truck on down to the University of Texas. Colorado's Buffs are a Big, Big draw at Houston's Bluebonnet Bowl.

Houston's Astros farm their Blueblood Baseball talent to the Denver Bears of the Triple A American Association and if the Houston Oilers are going to blow a trade they don't have any qualms against giving the AFL Denver Broncos the best of it, as in the Charlie Johnson giveaway.

Colorado's most colorful Home Club Pro is Denver's Marion Pfluger, a former U of Texas Golfer so Burnt Orange he rarely misses a Longhorn game. He helped convince the late, famed Freddie Steinmark and All SWC Guard Bobby Mitchell to head for Austin.

Colorado's Eddie Crowder gets back by coming to Texas to sign the likes of West Columbia's All America Type Running Back Charlie Davis, All Big Eight Tight-end J.V. Cain of Houston Washington and Clifford Brancy, a Split-Receiver who fled the 100 in 9.2.

Colorado is invaded by literally thousands of Texans who fly down those ski slopes at Vail, Aspen and other Playgrounds. For years thousands more have come off the Texas Gulf Coast to bag Colorado Deer. Or, to fish those Mountain streams.

Dow Finsterwald, who still holds the PGA record for finishing 'in-the-money' on the Pro-Golf Tour, and who once tied Pal Arnold Palmer for the Masters title, (Before Palmer won a Playoff) is Resident Professional at Colorado Springs' Prestigious Broadmoor. Texans go there to rest and play golf. Finsterwald, too, has a Texas connection. Fresh out of Ohio U., Dow began playing the Big Tournaments out of San Antonio's Lackland AFB in 1952. He was the Ben Crenshaw of that day.

His first Pro Tour competition? Why, the Houston Open. Naturally. COME ON, NOW FRANK!

Frank Broyles, unabashedly copying another prominent SWC football coach is selling "The Blues" as Arkansas' 1973 theme. But, that's most difficult for a dyed-in-the-wool optimist like Frank. And, come to think of it, doesn't it take courage to cry when you have running backs like Dickey Mortin, Fullbacks like Marsh White, Quarterbacks like Scott Bull and Mike Kirkland, Linebackers like Danny Rhodes, Defensive linemen like Jon Rhiddlehoover, and Wide Receivers like Reggie Craig and Jack Ettinger?

Arkansas, by all accepted measurement, was judged to have out recruited everybody in the SWC in 1971, was close to the Aggies in '72 and again in '73. Arkansas-Hater hoping Broyles' moaning is truly simply have not been keeping up. And they will wonder what happened when those Porkers begin to roll. "Scott Bull," Broyles says of his 6-4, 210 pound quarterback, "will surprise you how well he gets the job done."

Frantic Frank cannot cry. It ain't natural for him. He's not very good at it.

PACKING WARM EGGS

Recent tests at Texas A & M University have shown that egg quality is not reduced by packing warm eggs and then cooling them as opposed to the traditional method of cooling them before packaging. According to a poultry marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, warm cartoning of eggs would eliminate expensive refrigeration prior to packaging regardless of the type of carton used.

British Firm Supplies Popular Bugging Devices

By Patrick Massey

LONDON

Reuter -- Just round the corner from Scotland Yard lies the modest showroom of a firm claiming to be Britain's biggest supplier of surveillance bugs -- like the ones used at Watergate and in the British Sex Snoop Scandal.

A visitor to the office of Allen International will be shown the same kind of telephone tapping instrument

The Consumer Alert

AUSTIN

You might imagine that people who deal with consumer complaints every day would gradually get used to hearing about troubles.

But that doesn't seem to happen. The assistant attorney general who works in our Consumer Protection and Environmental Protection divisions, where complaints of abuse are received frequently, never appears to look upon anybody's problems as "commonplace."

I have observed that this is true, also, among personnel in other agencies involved in problem-solving.

Perhaps, it is because this type of work attracts persons who are compassionate and concerned. And, perhaps, it is because one never ceases to be amazed at the many ways in which true con-men can perpetrate fraud, and the problems they can cause.

One example of this unfortunate brand of ingenuity was evident recently when a North Central Texas trial judge granted our Environmental Protection Division's request for a contempt of court order for a consumer fraud which was disguised as "pest control" service.

Before discussing this case, let me emphasize that most licensed pest control operators are serious businessmen, trying to offer a needed service, and depending upon return customers who expect reliable and expert help.

If someone offers you pest control service, ask to see his Texas Structural Pest Control Board Identification card -- the card which is issued by the Board to show an authorized operator's license number, driver's license, social security and other dependable information. Be certain that the date of the license is current.

If the operator cannot show you that license, that should be enough of a warning not to do business with him.

employed in the Watergate burglary and a see-in-the-dark camera lens like the one that snapped former British Air Force Minister Lord Lambton in a call girl's bedroom.

The availability of this equipment, and the ethics of using it, are now under earnest debate in the British press, on television and in the House of Lords.

At issue is whether new laws may be needed to protect the Englishman's cherished privacy.

Few British firms specialize in bugging devices. Some, like Mulhall Electronics based in Northern Ireland, freely sell items like secret microphones and inexpensive miniature transmitters.

But Managing Director Lee Tracey of Allen International says that all his bugging sales are to overseas governments -- mostly in South-East Asia and South America but sometimes in Africa and the Middle East.

"Our equipment is bought by governments who are under heavy pressure from subversive groups," Tracey said in an interview. "We have no market at all of this kind with any government or police agency in Britain."

Tracey claimed that the British market for surveillance equipment -- both private and official -- is negligible.

Other evidence suggests however, that industrial espionage in Britain is sharply on the increase. According to one recent estimate, private inquiry agent investigated nearly 500 cases of industrial spying last year.

Lucrative rewards often await the spy who can discover design secrets that may have taken years to develop or who can simply acquire information on confidential lists of customers.

The law on bugging in Britain is vague. Apart from the question of illegal access, an offender can often be charged only with operating radio transmission equipment without a license from the post office.

Though proclaiming indifference to the industrial spy trade, Tracey has all the equipment that it needs.

One of his wares is a fountain pen which really writes but whose main function is to act as a snoop transmitter. Deposited in a businessman's pen tray, it will broadcast the slightest murmur across his desk during the seven hours before the battery gives out. Price is $160.

A more expensive gadget is the infinity transmitter at about $600. As at Watergate, this requires access to the target's telephone. The bug is fixed to the telephone wire and concealed in the room.

It can then be activated by a telephone call which may be from the next street or from the other side of the world. The victim answers his telephone, is told "wrong number," and replaces the receiver.

But the room is then "Alive" and every sound made in it can be heard over the telephone from which the spy made his call, even though it was in Tokyo or New York and the victim is in Paris.

A much cruder device is the matchbox sized bug which costs around $75 and is simply stuck under a desk or behind a filing cabinet. The eavesdropper can pick up its signals from a range of 50 yards.

Mururoa Testing Ground For French Nuclear Bomb

By David Barber

Aboard the New Zealand Navy frigate Otago, Reuter: A deserted palm-covered atoll around a coral-studded lagoon in the Ocean of Peace, Mururoa has become the South Seas proving ground for the ultimate modern weapon of war.

The atoll in French Polynesia, test site for French nuclear bomb explosions is now also the center of a storm of international protest as France prepares for its seventh series of tests in the area.

This frigate, sent by New Zealand to cruise nearby, is one symbol of the scope the protests have taken on this year.

Nuclear weapons first came to the South Pacific in 1966 after France lost its Sahara testing ground following the independence of Algeria. The choice of the site involved dreamy Polynesia in General De Gaulle's determination to build an independent nuclear strike force for France.

The most awesome destructive device created by modern man had come to a primitive region long associated with a special romantic aura.

The name Polynesia conjures up for many westerners visions of the South Seas paradise depicted by the French painter Paul Gauguin 75 years ago.

French Polynesia comprises some 130 islands scattered over 2,500 square miles.

The French bombs are exploded at Mururoa, 2,600 miles from New Zealand and 750 miles from Tahiti.

Four other tiny atolls in the Tuamotu-Gambier island group are less known but also integral parts of the test program. Agataufa, 20 miles away, is a forward observation post. Tureia has a radar base and an airport capable of taking big jets, and Anaa has other important testing equipment.

This is the part of the world where men such as James Cook and Captain William Bligh sailed, putting many of the South Sea islands and their beautiful but treacherous coral reefs on western maps.

The reefs are still littered with the wrecks of ships that came to grief in past centuries. The whalers that used to sail Pacific waters still ply among the lands with the copra and pearl shell by which the people live.

Nuclear devices are only the latest aspect of the white man's society brought to the islands.

Diseases previously unknown accompanied the white man's appearance there. In the last century, missionaries trying to pass on Christianity often spread violence at the same time.

Mururoa, discovered in 1767, was uninhabited until the nuclear test site buildings began to rise in 1963. There are now three villages, an airfield, a group of radio masts and a tall tower.

Agataufa, the observation post downwind from Mururoa, now has an airstrip and seaplanes land on its deep lagoon.

Building Projects Change Face Of China

By James Prongle

PEKING

Reuter - Teams of hundreds of workmen and women are pressing ahead all over Peking on building projects which are rapidly changing the face of China's ancient capitol.

Some projects also appear to be threatening the charm of some of the city's older sections.

The building boom seems to have gone into full swing this spring.

The new China news agency in a report at the end of May, described the scale of construction as "the biggest for a decade." The official agency said that among the new building projects that will change Peking's skyline are a modern terminal building for the capital's airport and a new multi-story hotel beside the Forbidden city.

The new terminal, being built to replace one in neo-Stalinist style, will have a restaurant, a shop, a bank and a small hotel to cope with the vastly increased number of visitors who have been flowing into the capital as the results of China's opening up to the world became fully apparent in the past year.

The official agency said the Peking reinforced concrete structures plant was filling orders for more than 30,000 pre-stressed, reinforced concrete slabs for major building projects. It said the motto for the plants workers was: "Seize every second and get materials ready for key projects ahead of time."

The agency said other projects included a long-distance telephone building for both international and domestic services, road overpasses, housing, schools and hotels.

Apart from the temporary inconvenience caused by eddying dust from these projects when the wind is blowing, some admirers of this beautiful city are anxiously watching the effects on old Peking's atmosphere of calm and harmony.

Many projects are located amid the old alleyways which, with their hidden courtyard gardens and sunflowers peering over grey walls, are a basic part of the city's charm.

But many ancient buildings have been torn down in these areas to make way for shock brigades of workmen erecting practical, functional buildings of much less apparent aesthetic value.

The new hotel beside the existing Peking Hotel, which dates from the early 1930s is to be 20 stories high.

This will give guests an unrivalled panorama of the Forbidden City, but could affect the view of the skyline as seen from inside this complex of old palaces and pavilions of the Ming and Manchu emperors.

The old legation quarter, a legacy of 19th century Europe in the heart of Peking, is not immune to change either. This area, where until the Japanese occupation of the late 1930s foreign diplomats lived privileged lives, was until recently a labyrinth of quiet cobbled streets echoing only to the clip clop of an occasional horse or mule drawing a cart.

The Chinese are building a new swimming pool, badminton court and government offices for exiled Cambodian head of state Prince Sihanouk at his residence in the former Legation Street, now called Anti-Imperialist Street.

Building materials are strewn across the narrow street, and the government offices have changed the character of the corner beside St. Michaels Church, now a storeroom.

French Drivers Have Food Guide

By Peggy Massin

PARIS

Reuter-Hungry truck drivers in other lands often have to settle for a greasy snack-but not in France.

This year 4,000 certified truck stop restaurants known as "Relais Routiers" will serve 70 million delectable, or at least respectable, meals to professional drivers as well as tourists--for less than three dollars each.

An ever-increasing number of tourists are aware that good low-price meals are available in France in spite of rising food prices, exploding the fallacy that gourmet cooking is restricted to the two-and three-star restaurants listed in the Michelin Guide, where prices may be around $23 a person.

French commercial trucking even has its own food guide.

Often called "The Poor Man's Michelin," the Routier publication is patterned after the French tourist bible whose ratings make many hotel keepers and restaurateurs tremble with fear or jump for joy.

Every truck stop in the Routier guide is checked out once a year, and if the price has risen above 15 francs per meal or the quality of the cooking has dropped, the restaurant is dropped the following year.

Relais Routiers are judged on three specific qualifications: the welcome, cooking, and price. One hundred and thirty among the 4,000 listed in the current edition have been awarded the sign of "The Casserole," signifying that they merit particularly high rating.

The truckers union this year introduced an annual award to celebrate the 40th anniversary of their movement. The first presentation went to the outstanding Relais member of the year, Pierre Langlois, 34 year old chef and owner of the Hotel De La Poste at Vazzy, in central France.

Langlois has been cooking since he was 13 years old, a "lucky number" he says, and his Routier menus include regional dishes such as Charolais beef, filet of pike, and chicken simmered in fresh mushrooms.

The drivers union and guide book were founded in 1933 by the Vicomte Francois De Saulieu, a journalist and amateur cyclist at the time and a gourmet to this day.

Police Wage Traffic War

By Derek Parr

EAST BERLIN

Reuter -- At midnight in East Berlin, two cabs screeched to a halt on a busy thoroughfare, box in a third car and approach the occupant menacingly.

The cab drivers hand their "victim" over to the police because he has shot past an amber traffic light. They are making their somewhat zealous contribution to East Germanys fight against dangerous driving.

For the past year in particular, the East German traffic police have been waging an all-out war against recalcitrant drivers, but there is no indication that accidents are on the wane--in fact last months' figures were the worst for almost two years.

The chief target for traffic police are drunken drivers, and here there is little mercy for them.

In East Germany, as in other East European communist states, a driver is not allowed to touch a single drop of alcohol unless he is prudent enough to leave his car at home.

In 1971 drunken driving caused eight per cent of East German road accidents 6.5 per cent of road injuries and 14.1 per cent of road deaths.

One accident under the influence of alcohol carries a maximum fine of about $500.

In addition the drinking renegade can count on having his license confiscated for up to three years if he causes an accident.

And this is no idle threat--some 21,000 licenses (roughly one in 225) were confiscated because of drunken driving in 1971 alone.

Don't skip meals to lose weight--research indicates that only a permanent change in eating habits causes permanent weight loss, says Karen Kreipke, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Fake Watches Worrying Swiss

By Christopher Pritchett

SINGAPORE

Reuter-Millions of people around the world are wearing "Swiss-made" watches that have never seen Switzerland, and the rising sales of these fake products have Swiss watch-makers deeply worried.

For years Italy, Hong Kong, India, Pakistan and a few other countries have been churning out millions of time-pieces with the magic words that spell quality and reliability to watch buyers--"Swiss made."

The Swiss now fear that producers of the counterfeits are switching their activities to Singapore and two senior government and industry officials have been here to discuss countermeasures.

The two men-Jean Benoit, chief of the Swiss office of Interpol and assistant to the Swiss attorney-general, and M. D. A. Thomas, director of the foreign affairs division of the Swiss watch manufacturers federation--spent four days here talking to police, government officials and importers.

The outcome of their talks is not known. But they apparently studied local laws to seek ways of stemming the output of fake watches--for which two major world markets are South Africa and Indonesia.

Willy Saladin, the young Swiss director of the Swiss watch industry information and technical center here, says the problem is world wide and runs into millions of bogus products.

"The business in Hong Kong alone is tremendous. There it can run into five million watches a year. Now we greatly fear they (the producers) are going to shift to Singapore."

Saladin says even the most famous and most expensive Swiss watches are being counterfeited and buyers at even the most reputable shops around the world can be sold fakes.

"Some imitations are so good I can't tell you whether they are Swiss until I open the watch," he added.

Switzerland itself has tough laws defining just what timepieces can carry the words "Swiss made."

But the legislation applies only to Switzerland-and obviously further enhances the value of the two simple words.

NATO Agrees To Troop Cuts

By Sidney Welland

VIENNA

Reuter -- NATO and the Warsaw Pact have ended five months of face to face diplomacy with both sides slightly scarred by the experience.

The result is an agreement to start negotiations on troop cuts in central Europe on October 30, latest phase in the confidence-building process now under way between east and west.

But it has left diplomats from smaller nations wary and worried over the role played by the super powers.

It has raised doubts also over the effectiveness of old-style diplomacy in an age of big-decision summitry.

Although officials from 19 nations held dozens of private meetings in Vienna, the last hurdles were overcome only when President Nixon and Soviet communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev met in Washington.

It was left to the Vienna negotiators to ratify the details at a half-hour meeting in Vienna, enlivened by a protest from Rumania that the agreement failed to take proper account of small-nation interests.

Three weeks earlier, Belgium's chief delegate staying away from a NATO working group meeting because of secret U. S. Russian contacts, and the Belgian government went on record with a warning against "back-room deals" between the super powers.

The coming troop-reduction talks, confined initially to central Europe, are based on a cautious accord which follows important concessions by NATO in face of a tough bargaining position adopted by the communist nations.

The long, and several times deadlocked, preparatory talks started with champagne toasts and general bonhomie on Jan. 31 but quickly bogged down in procedural wrangling.

The talks, urged by the west for the last five years, brought the two military alliances together for their first direct discussions since their establishment, NATO in 1949 and the Warsaw Pact in 1955.

The first 14 weeks were spent arguing about the status of Hungary, where an estimated 40,000 Soviet Troops are stationed.

NATO demanded Hungary's full participation in negotiations, while Russia insisted on keeping the Hungarians on the sidelines as observers.

First strains developed within the NATO group when the US indicated readiness to bow to the Soviet position.

Privately, some west European diplomats felt U.S. negotiators were softening because the Nixon administration wanted quick results to head off congressional pressure for a unilateral cut in the 300,000 strong American force in Europe.

American diplomats in turn hinted that the British, Dutch and Belgians were "too hard-line."

Austin Aqua Fete Not Far By Car

Many people will be thinking twice before they start out on any long car treks to see the USA this year. This summer's gas shortage has thrown a caution sign on those long distance trips by car.

You might consider visiting a fun place, close enough to home to avoid running out of gas, but far enough away to be called a vacation trip.

Although the official starting date of the Festival is Aug. 3, some festivities begin in late July and the number of events to entertain are varied both on land and water. For starters, there's the Texas Water Ski Championship July 28 and 29. This lasts all day and features nationally known skiers competing in a variety of events.

Masterpiece Meatloaf
1 egg
2 teaspoons Ac'cent
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
1 cup tomato juice
¼ cup finely chopped celery

¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
2 pounds ground beef chuck
Beat egg lightly in medium bowl; add Ac'cent, salt, pepper, thyme, mustard, bread crumbs and tomato juice. Mix until all ingredients are very well blended. Mix in celery, onion and cheese. Break up ground beef and add to bowl; mix lightly but thoroughly with a fork. A meatloaf shaped like a roast is easy to do. Just take an 18-inch piece of 12-inch wide waxed paper, put meat mixture in center, and fold paper over meat to make ends meet. Hold ends of paper; with other hand, push meat mixture toward fold, forming a roll. Lift waxed paper, fold ends of meat toward center, repeat pushing and shaping until smooth compact roll, 12 to 14 inches long, is formed. Slide roll onto baking sheet or shallow baking pan. If a loaf shape and a moister meatloaf are desired, press meat mixture lightly into 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Bake uncovered in 375°F. oven 1 hour to 1 hour and 10 minutes.

YIELD: 8 servings.

When
is a melon ripe?

The best way to get ripe, quality melons is to shop for firm, medium-sized fruit that has a good shape, characteristic of its variety, and a good appearance, free from bruises and cuts. Melons that are heavy in relation to size usually contain a meaty flesh and more juice. Ripe melons—except watermelons—will yield slightly to light thumb pressure on the blossom end (opposite the stem end).

Ripe cantaloupes are yellow and have a thick, distinctive netting over the surface, with a smooth rounded indentation where the stem was. Ripe Persian melons look like large flattened cantaloupes, but they have a yellow skin, with netting, and pinkish meat.

Honeydew and honeyball melons will have a yellowish-white to creamy rind when ripe. They feel soft and velvety to the touch. Ripe Crenshaw melons have golden-yellow rinds with small areas of lighter yellow. Casaba melons will have hard, golden-yellow rinds and white meat when ripe.

It is difficult to select an uncut watermelon, but look for a slightly dull rind and fully rounded sides. The underside will be creamy or yellow—do not accept one that is white or pale green. Look for firm, juicy red flesh with no white streaks when selecting a cut watermelon. In most varieties, the seeds should be dark brown or black.
